Employees protesting at the planned closure of the Magnet electronics factory have begun a protest outside the factory in Brook Road. It was revealed last week that production at the factory, where over 3000 local people are employed, is being transferred to the Magnet plant in Luton next month. 'Why were we not informed about this earlier? We were only told about this two days ago,' said Marjory Calder, representing the workforce. 'It's about time companies such as this started thinking about how local communities are affected by their policies. Most people here are buying houses. How are they going to keep up their mortgage payments? And how are we going to find jobs? I wish I knew.' Reg Reynolds of Magnet was asked what was being done to help those who had been made redundant. 'The majority of our employees have been offered work at our plant in Luton,' he told our reporter, 'and every effort has been made over the past month to offer early retirement to those who qualify.' When he was questioned about why the workers had not been told about the closure earlier, he revealed that the company had been promised a government loan to keep the factory open, but that at the last minute it had been decided not to provide the loan after all. 'So don't blame the company, we've done our best.' Local MP Brenda Stone has been asked to raise the matter in the House of Commons, and told us that a letter would be sent to the Minister responsible within the next few days. Read the text

I used to go home from work late at night and I would always look up at the moon and enjoy the evening. One night I was walking along, when suddenly I looked down, and everything familiar just vanished! Everything – the houses, the garbage bins, the fences, even the streets – was gone!

There were just trees and bushes, but several hundred feet before me I could see a cottage. Naturally, I felt a little frightened, but I kept walking. I didn't use to be afraid of anything. When I got closer, I noticed a Young couple sitting in the garden.

Somehow while I was standing there, watching them, a small dog ran toward me, barking wildly. The man in the garden looked up and called to the dog to stop barking. I realized that he couldn't see me, but the dog had obviously sensed that I was there.

While I was trying to make up my mind what to do, I turned to look back the way I had just come, and there was my street again! When I turned for another look at the cottage, it was gone, and I was standing in the middle of my own block. The cottage, the lovers, and the small dog were all gone.

I used to think traveling through time was impossible, but now I don't.
